AMUSEMENTS

"BRIGHT EYES."

Cecil Lean, the popular young comedian, who will be seen at Elks theatre for two nights, beginning Monday, December 11. In Joseph M. Fantes' new musical play "Bright Eyes," has a large fund of good stories with which he regales his friends throughout the country. Here is one he told the other day:

"A few years ago when we were traveling in the west we were booked for a single night in a little city, which possessed two daily papers. Neither of them amounted to much, but the editors were bitter enemies and worked twenty-four a day to outdo each other. When the train bearing the company arrived at the station and I stepped from the car I was met by an excited individual who introduced himself as one of the editors of the papers.

"I want three cuts from you immediately," he shouted as soon as he had made himself known.

"I was somewhat surprised at this demand and told the irate editor that I didn't carry cuts, that part of the business being looked after by the advance agent."

"Your advance agent is a lobster," he shouted. "He gave our rival up the street eight cuts and only gave us six, and I've got to have three more in order to beat that imitation paper that is getting proud of the fact that it is printing more cuts of your show than we are."

"Of course I didn't have any cuts, but I will lay a small bet that that editor still thinks that the advance agent and I were in a conspiracy to help his rival beat him."

STORY OF "THE CLANSMAN"

Plot of Famous Play Well Known to All Theatergoers.

The story of Thomas Dixon's celebrated drama, "The Clansman," a revival of which will appear in this city on Wednesday, December 13, at Elks theatre, is well known to all theatergoers. However, in view of the coming engagement of the play, it may be well to mention it.

"The Clansman" is briefly the story of how the descendants of the Scottish clans, living in the South Carolina hill country, rose up in the year 1867 and threw off the carpet-bagger yoke. The agency in effecting this result was the celebrated Ku Klux Klan. The hero of the play, Ben Cameron, is a leader of the Klan. His sweetheart, Elsie Stoneman, is the daughter of an abolitionist, the organizer of the hated Union League. Here is the interplay of love and hate, of passion and circumstance, in which the dramatist delights. Elsie's father puts forth every effort to enforce negro domination, and Ben as stoutly resists. The latter is arrested and clapped in jail by the scalawag white governor of the state, who is egged on by the mulatto lieutenant-governor, Silas Lynch. A federal court-martial sentences Ben to death. Elsie begs the lieutenant-governor to save him. The latter says he will if Elsie will marry him (the mulatto). Elsie faints at the shocking proposal. Stoneman enters and is maddened on learning what his trusted protegee has done. He has encouraged Lynch about social equality, and, indeed, has told him to go ahead and marry a white woman; but when he learns Lynch wants his own daughter, that is another story and his rage and disgust are beyond bounds.

Yet Stoneman and his daughter are helpless in the hands of the mulatto. It is the Ku Klux Klan, headed by the rescued Ben, who surround the house, make Lynch a prisoner and free the old man and his daughter. Stoneman at last sees his gigantic mistake in trying to rule the country by carpet-baggers and negroes and in instilling false ideas of social and political equality. He announces that he will make yet another trip to Washington to induce the authorities there to withdraw the federal troops and allow the southern people to manage their affairs in their own way. Ben and Elsie are united. A fairer day begins for this portion of the stricken south, thanks to the high purpose, steadfast courage and heroic achievements of the Ku Klux Klan, "an invisible empire which within a few months over-spread a territory larger than modern Europe, snatched power out of defeat and death, and tore the fruits of victory from twenty million conquerors."

THE COLISEUM

On Monday evening, as a special addition to the regular picture program, Manager Reeves will offer a big 5000-foot film depicting some of the exploits and early incidents in the life of the most famous and infamous of border bandits, the James boys. It is not necessary to state that the James boys did not "pose" for this work but the artists' conception of their special line of work is fearfully like the real specialties of the James boys.

ENDS WINTER'S TROUBLES.

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost-bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains cold-sores, red and rough skins, prove this. But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Bruises, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at all druggists.

Fine Reception to Republican Candidates on State Ticket.

FLORENCE, Dec. 9.—Special Correspondence of The Republican.—The reception given to the republican state candidates Judge Wells, Judge Doan, "Dad," Sturges and Claude Jones, was the warmest of the campaign. They were met at the depot by a procession of nearly three hundred men, women and school children, and the Florence band and escorted to town. There was another torchlight parade in the evening escorting the candidates to the courthouse where an enthusiastic audience greeted them. F. E. McCarthy acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced each speaker in well chosen words. The speaker were of the best and enjoyed by all present. After the speaking everybody was invited to a dance at Keating hall, given by the republican club. It was well attended and enjoyed by all present.

D. E. Lynch has transferred his lease on the Florence hotel to Elmer W. Coker. Mr. Lynch's health requiring him to get out into the open air. He has gone to his mining property at Kelvin. Mrs. Lynch and baby will remain here during the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Coker took charge of the hotel Monday morning. The same morning Mrs. Coker had the misfortune to break her ankle. It will be several weeks before she will be able to be around again. They are sure to make a success as they are both the kind of people who do succeed.

Supervisors Willis and McCarthy came to Florence to attend the regular meeting of the board. The Ladies of the Maccabees gave another one of their delightful dances Thanksgiving, and anyone who has ever attended a dance given by the Florence Maccabees knows that the music and refreshments were the best to be had. As a social affair it was a great success.

APPRECIATIVE READER OF RESOURCE EDITION

Detroit Family Regards Special Issue of Republican as Almost as Equal to a Visit Here.

The following letter is fully self-explanatory and unsolicited but one The Republican is nevertheless proud to publish:

Editor of the Arizona Republican. Sir:—I received the Resource Edition of the Arizona Republican; accept my hearty thanks for the courtesy. Mr. Meyers joins with me in praise of this special edition; the pictures and descriptions of familiar scenes are so graphically set forth, it reads like a very interesting story; in imagination one is carried back to your beautiful wonderful country, its brilliant sunshine, pure bracing air, the entrancing beauty of its blue, blue skies, come thronging into one's mind, and this bleak drizzly November day becomes all warm and sunshiny. No! honestly, I have never drank of the waters of your famed Hassayampa. Your paper afforded us much pleasure and profit; its fifty-six pages are replete with instruction. Again I thank you.

Sincerely yours, FRANCES MYERS.

LATHAM'S ADDRESS TO MARICOPA VOTERS

Candidate for State Senator Tells Why He Should Be Elected.

To the Voters of Maricopa County: It has been my endeavor in this campaign to see every voter personally, but as this has proven impossible, I take this means to acquaint you with the fact that I am the nominee for the Arizona state senate on the republican ticket.

I am making this campaign on strictly business lines. I have been in the real estate business in Phoenix for over thirteen years, and have spent every minute of that time in the building up and improvement of this city and county. I have served the public and taxpayers whenever called on. Have brought in more homeseekers and investors than probably any other man in the county. I have never held public office or received one cent of compensation for any public service. I have never been a party partisan, but have always tried to vote for the man I considered best qualified for the office. I am making no criticism of my opponents, but I do believe my work has of necessity better qualified me for the position I seek than any other man.

I am not making a lot of campaign promises to catch voters; the only pledge I make is, if elected, to serve the whole people of Arizona in general, and Maricopa county in particular, to the very best of my ability. I am in favor of the resubmission of the recall. I am in favor of the advisory vote for United States senators, and a square deal for all. I have proved by my work among you that I am progressive, and I think you will agree with me that actions are better than words.

Now, Mr. Voter, I ask you to look me and my record up and compare it with the record of my opponents, and if you think my work among you is entitled to consideration at your hands, and that I am better qualified to serve you, I earnestly solicit your vote and support. Very respectfully,

H. I. LATHAM.
